Quality early education: An investment in our future

The early years of a child's life are critical for brain development. A child's early experiences can have a positive impact on their development and can establish brain connections that will last a lifetime. At the United Way Center for Excellence in Early Education (CFE), we provide high-quality early learning programs, including well-qualified teachers, research-based curriculum and assessments and family engagement – all essential to nurturing young bodies and minds.
